STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, JULY 20, 1897.

NO. 41

RELIGIOUS

The Epworth Leaguers, 20,000 strong, are carrying everything before them at Somersett.

Rev. W. A. Borum has accepted the call of the Baptist church at Somersett and preached his first sermon Sunday evening.

Dr. J. H. Boyett, of Lexington, arrived yesterday and he and Rev. R. B. Mahoney began a protracted meeting at Preachersville last night.

Miss Mary Conover, a young Cloverport lady of good family, has gone off with the salvation army. Her folks claim that she is demented.

After making a fortune out of manufacturing tobacco, Maj. Reynolds, of Bristol, Tenn., has sold out because he has come to the conclusion that the business is wrong.

Neighboring associations will be had this year as follows: South Kentucky at Somersett August 10; South District at Lancaster Aug. 15; Bates' Creek at Berea Aug. 24 and Cumberland River at Ephesus, near Crab Orchard, Aug. 31.

There is a preacher here in Stanford that "mixes" with the people in very near the proper way. In an affectionate way I might say he "is one of the boys." He gets down off of the perch of dignity, as it were, where some preachers seem to think they must sitifly sit, and makes even children feel "at home" in his presence. I refer to Elder J. T. Sharrard, pastor of the Christian church. At a picnic here the other day, while all the Sunday-school children attended, a brass band furnished the music and Bro. Sharrard tickled the children wonderfully by assisting the musicians by beating the bass drum and he showed that he could play music as well as preach. A man that takes pleasure in trying to make others happy, in any and every way he can, is the one that is always the most effective preacher, and such a one is Bro. Sharrard.—J. F. W. in Harrodsburg Sayings.

Speaking of James Redoubtable Hindman, as the Louisville Times calls him, the Glasgow News is reminded of what Wm. Stewart, of Adair, once said of him and his fondness for making an address, which he does on the slightest provocation: "When the last shock shall come to bury the nations in one universal heap of ruin; when the pale nations of the dead shall arise and assemble to receive the reward promised the faithful and the cursed from the foundation of the world; when the recording angel shall open the great book of accounts; when peace by the authority of the Creator of heaven and earth shall assume stillness, and the just are awaiting that welcome applaudit, 'Well done thou good and faithful servant,' and the wicked that dreaded condemnation, 'Depart from me ye cursed,'" down the aisle will come Jim Hindman, in breathless anxiety and suspense for fear that time will be brought to a close without his assistance, and in tones loud enough to drown the sound of Gabriel's trumpet, the crash of dissolving planets and the wreck of worlds will exclaim, "Check this business and let me make the opening address!"

Hundreds of people are preparing to leave Seattle for the gold fields in Alaska. It is said the claims now staked out will afford employment for 5,000 men. Wages in the mines are $15 per day. It is declared there is no danger of food giving out. Conservative men think there is room for hundreds more people.

The Negro who outraged and murdered Miss Rene Williams at West Point, Tenn., was captured and taken to the girl's home, where a mob of 500 of the best people in the place stamped him to death and burned his body. The intention was to burn him at the stake, but the mob was too eager.

Charles Delmonico, the present head of the world-famous New York restaurants, is reported ill and demented in Paris. The last preceding proprietor of these renowned eating-houses became insane, wandered off in the hills of New Jersey, and, strange irony of fate, starved to death.

Miss Willie Thorncell, of Livingston, Ala., robed herself for the grave, wrote a half dozen farewell letters and then took enough laudanum to kill her. She had quarreled with her mother a few days previous and brooded over it day and night till she took her life.

Woman are now taking a hand in the mining strike by urging their husbands to needs of violence. Hunger is causing deep mutterings of discontent, and a thousand miners are said to be marching on Cannonsburg. Serious trouble is feared.

A Moscow doctor says that his observations have convinced him that appendicitis is not only a contagious, but sometimes an epidemic disease.

Sigmar Bumpidipian, otherwise known as Mr. Paderewski, is limiting his income this year strictly to $10,000 per week.

A N. Y. Central train ran from Syracuse to Buffalo, 149 miles, in 137 minutes.

LANCASTER

Miss Mary Miller will entertain on Thursday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Jeannie Portwood, of Lawrenceburg.

Miss Debbie Mae, the attractive daughter of Dr. J. D. Batson, will be married on Wednesday evening at the residence of her uncle, R. H. Batson, to Mr. Presley Simpson Adkerson. The happy pair will be at home at South Boston, Va., after July 25.

Rev. George O. Barnes' meeting will not close before Tuesday night, after which he will go to Owingsville or Winchester. The time of his meeting here was not favorable, on account of the Fair, but much good has been done and his powerful sermons will be long remembered.

The Garrard County Colored John, Fair Association will be held at the Fair grounds near Lancaster on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 6 and 7. A board of 50 directors from adjoining counties have formed a combination to give one of the largest and most attractive entertainments of the kind ever given in the State. A grand barbecue will also be given on the first day to the different lodges and societies that come out for the $60 prize given to the order which turns out the greatest number, to be enrolled on the grounds. A $30 prize will be given to the best brass band, not less than four contesting. $700 will be given in premiums, including contests and stock shows. Special trains from Cincinnati and Louisville, James Combs, Danville, president; A. Carr, Stanford, vice-president; Frank Luckey, Lancaster, secretary; Wm. King, Lancaster, ass't sec'y.

Our fair now makes another bright page in the history of Garrard county. It has passed and nothing occurred to mar the happiness of any one, the fair even failing to materialize. The circus did not arrive and we are better off, though some are dissatisfied on that account; but none of our people are to be blamed for its failure to appear. A small crowd was in attendance on Friday on account of the threatening weather, but about 4,000 people were on the grounds Saturday and the friends of the officers and stockholders who labored so hard to make it a success will be glad to learn that they will not lose anything. The show of stock was good and the competition was lively. Lincoln county was better represented, as to people in attendance, than any adjoining county.

Among the distinguished guests were Gov. James B. McCrory, who gave a premium of $50, Col. Craddock, of Paris, who stood in the broiling sun for one hour, waiting for some one to give him the name of one of our beautiful ladies, upon whom he was gazing, while his youthful cheeks were crimson and his eyes sparkled with the deepest admiration, J. S. Owlesley, Jr., who is sure to be re-elected Commonwealth's attorney, James Maret, editor of the Mt. Vernon Signal, and that gifted journalist, Joe F. Waters.

William P. Woodcock, of Danville, won the $50 prize for the best shot at five pigeons, killing 19 out of 20. Nicholasville defeated Danville in the match game of base ball, getting $75, while the Danville boys received $25. The score stood 5 to 3.

The following is the list of premiums awarded and names of successful competitors, except those that were declared off in the evening on account of a heavy rain, but which were afterward exhibited and not recorded, as the secretaries had left the grounds:

Hoof Mason, a desperado, was killed by Luke Connelly, an L. & N. watchman, at Paris.

Palace is the name of a new Russell county post-office and C. C. Thomas has been appointed postmaster.

The Standard Oil Co., has made Corbin a barrelling station, with Dan Williams, late of Barbourville, in charge.

The handsome new $100,000 public building at Richmond was formally dedicated to the public service last week.

A dispatch says that the large saw and grist mill near Middleburg, belonging to Richard Flatter was destroyed by fire. Loss $1,500.

Rev. William P. Craig died at the home of his father, Dr. Willis Green Craig, in Chicago.

The remains were brought to Danville for interment.

S. Ornstein, proprietor of the Economy dry goods store in Danville, died suddenly Saturday. He came to Danville from Louisville a short time since.

C. C. Gossett, an aged and respected citizen of the Cain's Store section of Pulaski, died last week. The reporter says he was a man of sterling qualities.

Corbin dispatch says that papers are being prepared for a new county, with Corbin as the county seat. It will be made out of Knox, Whitley and Laurel counties.

The decomposed body of a woman found on the Weisiger farm in Boyle was identified as the remains of "Aunt Fanny" Davis, a Negress, who died five years ago at the age of 101. Her grave on the Davis farm was robbed two weeks ago.

Two fatal shooting scrapes are reported from Whitley. Walter Byrd, a prominent citizen, while trying to stop a row, was shot and mortally wounded by James Reedy, a young man 19 years old. Reedy is in jail. At Rockford, Joseph Broyles was waylaid and two loads of buckshot were fired into him. He will probably die. His assailant is unknown, but is thought to be a Negro named Ephraim Jones.

Phil A. Marks, an old and well-known citizen of Danville, died suddenly Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Ball. The death was a great shock to his family, especially to Mrs. Marks, to whom the news was broken by a friend. The deceased came to Danville from the East a great many years ago, and since then had been engaged in the merchant tailoring business. He was about 65 years of age, and besides his wife, who was a Miss Hightower, of Jessamine, leaves six children—Mrs. Joe Flagg, Terre Haute, Ind., Will and John Marks, Louisville, Mrs. Oe. Goodloe, Nicholasville, Mr. George Marks, Mrs. Chas. Ball, of Danville. Mr. Marks was a member of the Methodist church, a Knight Templar, Odd Fellow and Knight of Pythias. Many persons will learn of his death with deep sorrow and regret.—Advocate.

You may say what you please about "old Billy Breckinridge," but we have arisen to remark that he is making the editorial column of the Lexington Herald one of the most interesting and entertaining in the State. He has the courage of his convictions to a marked degree and expresses his views on current issues in a most outspoken manner. His articles attacking the falsity of Judge Falconer's decision in liberating Harris for the assassination of Merritt are models of good sense and plain interpretation of the law, which is founded on right and justice. He clearly shows that it was not the examining judge's province to discharge the prisoner but plainly his duty to hold him over till the grand jury could investigate and a trial court pass on the crime. There is too much mauldin sentimentality displayed by judges in such cases, and Falconer seems to have capped the climax.

AFTER Jacob Harris had testified how he had caught T. H. Merritt and his wife billing, coining and kissing and finally saw her get in his lap, while he clasped her in his lecherous arms and the clerk of the Georgetown Hotel had fully identified Mrs. Harris as the woman who spent the night at his hotel June 21, after registering as T. H. Merritt and wife, it didn't take the court at Lexington long to pronounce the accused guilty of no crime in the killing of the man who had broken up his home and he went forth a free man. Thus the unwritten law enforced and so will it be to the end. The man who dishonors another man's wife does so almost with the absolute certainty of death if he is discovered.

Go in peace, glorious old Billy Breckinridge! All thy sins are forgiven thee.—Louisville Times. Verily prettily said, but will "Old Billy" absolve the editor of the Times so readily. It was once reported that he had gone to Louisville to make mince meat of the man who couldn't say too many hard things in connection with his connection with the Pollard woman. Politics makes strange bedfellows when Emmet Logan and Billy Breckinridge can pull off and get under the same cover.

The conference committee on the tariff bill has at last agreed to give the sugar trust nearly all it asked for and its profits under the bill will be enormous. Raw cotton is restored to the free list, cotton bagging is put on the dutiable list and white pine is taxed at the House rate of $2. The existing law as to the internal revenue on tobacco will stand. If the minority consent the bill was to have been reported yesterday.

A CASE of jumping from the frying pan into the fire is developed in the experience of Frank Randolph, formerly probate judge at Montgomery, Ala. He stole the city's money and ran off to the District of Columbia, where he engaged in a brawl and killed a man. He was tried last week and sentenced to death, so the cable says. Thus the last end of that man is worse than the first.

"WE happened in an editor's office in Lexington yesterday, talking with his charming wife when he came in and we threw up our hands and begged him not to shoot. We had just read of the three husbands who each killed his man." Unfortunately he wasn't shot however and Col. Craddock lived to tell the tale, as quoted, in his Paris Kentuckian.

KENTUCKY'S credit is pretty good after all. The $500,000 ten year, 4 percent bonds, authorized by the last Legislature, sold at a premium of $97.35. There were many bidders from outside the State, but the Louisville Fidelity Trust & Vault Co.'s bid was a little the highest and it secured the entire amount.

HINDMAN, boltoeratic nominee for appellate clerk, says that he intends to speak in every county in the State between now and the election. If only boltoerats go to hear him, his audience in some counties will be himself and another man. But that won't faze him. He will talk if the other man is dead one.

As his name implies Jim will be the Hindman in the appellate clerk derby and will be mentioned thereafter, if at all, with the "also rans."

THE Frankfort Capital goes for "Bill" Taylor, attorney general, in a way he must despise. "Bill," as it affectionately calls him, has been showing his ignorance of law by suggesting that for this year only the republicans should adopt the boltoeratic device and help elect Hindman, a course which would make the republican party lose all claims to legal recognition as it could only go on the ballot again as a new party. "The next time the republicans go to nominate a candidate for attorney-general," says the Capital, "they will provide a civil service examination, or at least insist that he shall read a little law. A party of wild jackasses, or woods colts, would be a glorious improvement on the aggregation of dandiphoons that is in evidence at this writing." Editor Forrester is the most outspoken editor in the State, but if he doesn't mind some "woods colts," as he calls them, will take his pretty scalp.

LAYING all jokes aside and giving all the devils their due, a careful perusal of the speeches made at the boltoeratic convention last week shows that of Mr. Watterson to be the best of them all. We do not agree with the Hon. Henrl, as much as we once did, but we are forced to admire his bright coruscating genius, whether displayed on the tripod or on the rostrum. With all his faults we love him still and pray that he will soon see the error of his way and fall in with the offers of mercy before it is too late. We had rather see 99 sinners go to the devil than for one good man to go wrong.

HONORS and good fortune are coming thick and fast to Sam J. Shackelford. He is not only going to be elected appellate clerk over boltoerats, republicans and what nots by 25,000 plurality, but he is going to take a wife. His engagement to Miss Mari Amner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Beriah Magoffin, of Duluth, Minn., is announced to take place early this Fall. She is a grand-daughter of Gov. Magoffin and is described as a lady of rare beauty and accomplishments. Shack's 25,000 friends in Kentucky rejoice at his good fortune and will vote to give him more.

In a column editorial yesterday the Courier-Journal advises us not to be so cock-sure of the election of Shackelford or of anything else in these turbulent political times and says stranger things have happened than the election of Hindman. To be sure. For instance the election of Grover Cleveland, after our prophetic friend had said he could not be and that his nomination was like walking from a charnel house into an open grave. But of this more anon, when we have more time and more space.

"If wheat goes to a dollar and corn to 75 cents, where will the INTERIOR JOURNAL be?" asks the Courier-Journal and answers its own interrogatory by saying, "It will be nowhere. There's where it will be." Wrong as usual. On the contrary the I. J. will be dead in it, to use a slangy phrase. All our moneyless subscribers can then pay up and we can sing psalms with the Courier-Journal to the beauties (?) of a high protective tariff. But we do not expect to have to sing by a long shot.

THE way the Warren county teachers went after the State republican administration is a plenty. At the Institute held there last week resolutions disapproving the management of public affairs were adopted and the suggestion made that if less money were spent for furnishing military escorts for criminals who when convicted by the courts are liberated by the executive, the ends of good government would be better attained and there would be more funds for the public schools.

AFTER a man had taken a drink of whisky in Joplin, Mo., and had refused to pay for it, the bartender shot him dead with a revolver. Had he waited and given the whisky time to act the bartender might not now be in jail. Missouri狂怒 is warranted to kill about as quickly as powder and lead.

THE Louisville Dispatch has taken the first step towards fame. A libel suit for $50,000 has been entered against it. A newspaper can't be said to be a newspaper until it has beaten several libel suits.

POLITICS

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee has entered the race to succeed Senator Daniels in Virginia.

In Sacramento, Calif., 15,000 people paid $1 each to hear W. J. Bryan talk about silver.

The superintendent of public instruction believes the school per capita can be fixed at $2 for this year.

The president has appointed T. V. Powderley, the Knights of Labor man, to be general commissioner of immigration.

Democrats are finding a good omen in the fact that the big Bryan flag pole at Sanders, Carroll county, has put forth a rich foliage.

Caldwell county Negroes are in revolt against the white republicans managers and propose to organize in every school district.

Hon. W. B. Smith, of Richmond, opened the campaign at Somerset Saturday by making a splendid speech for Sam J. Shaekelford and the democratic party in general.

The country is not the least bit surprised to learn that Mr. W. C. P. Breckinridge entertains a dislike for the 6,500,000 men who voted the democratic ticket last year.—N. Y. Journal.

Mark Hanna has retreated from the White House where he took up his quarters. He prefers to stand the assaults of the office-seekers rather than face public sentiment on his executive mansion lodgings.

The Chronicle, the only democratic paper in Chicago which bolted free silver last fall, is back in the fold. It denounces the boltoerats in Kentucky and Iowa, and says they are merely proving their obstinacy.—Dispatch.

Sims spoke, Carlisle Spoke, Lindsay spoke, Breckinridge spoke, Watterson spoke, Tony spoke. Hindman spoke, Buckner spoke—a veritable spoke factory, wasn't it?

But just wait until the democrats "speak" in November—Cynthiana Democrat.

Having duly confessed his sins to Rev. E. G. Logan, D. D., of the Louisville Times, the eminent prelate thus absolves Col. Breckinridge: "Go in peace, glorious old Billy Breckinridge! All thy sins be forgiven thee." But who is there to absolve the absorber? asks the Covington Commonwealth.

H. C. Rice was nominated in the primary for city judge of Richmond by a plurality of 150 over two popular gentlemen. He is a brother of William and J. S. Rice, of this place. J. B. Stouffer was nominated for mayor over D. P. Armer and J. W. Bales by a plurality of 25 and J. Talbot Jackson beat Green Clay 307 for city attorney.

The democrats of Putaski nominated the following ticket Saturday: For County Judge, Ben V. Smith; County Attorney, J. T. May; Jailer, Haydon Waddle; Representative, Dr. J. M. Owens; Assessor, Ned Kelley; School Superintendent, Mrs. Belle Edwards. Dr. Owens is a brother-in-law of Mr. S. M. Owens, of this county.

As a political issue the free and independent coinage of silver at the ratio of 15 to 1, or any other ratio, is as old as the institution of African slavery.—Henry Watterson. Fortunately or otherwise, the great editor is neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, as those who remember some of his past utterances will testify.

A faction of the republican party in Bell not liking the cut and dried ticket fixed up for them have nominated the following county ticket: Thomas J. Kellums, county judge; Robert Creech, county clerk; Henry Broughton, sheriff; John Miller, assessor; James Kirby, superintendent of schools; Thomas J. Renfro, jailer, and James F. Reed, coroner.

News Briefly Told

A 200-pound cat was caught out of the Ohio near Muscovy.

Thomas Wilson, of Gallipolis, O., fell dead while saying grace.

Isaac Sadler was killed by lightning while harvesting wheat near Earlington.

R. W. Papendreec, who was shot by a colored burglar in Louisville, died of his wounds.

Emanuel Rich, a prominent merchant of Atlanta, committed suicide by cutting his throat.

M. F. Brinkley is up again in Louisville for giving two more checks without money in bank.

Hagermann, the young lawyer, who defended Dinning at Franklin, is dead of typhoid fever.

Four boys went to sleep on a railroad track near Austin, Texas, and next day there were four funerals.

Harry Sidwill, of Covington, broke the amateur record for a mile by going it in 146.35 at Cincinnati.

A Negro who had criminally assaulted a woman and roasted her baby to death was hanged by a mob near Elba, Ala.

The ship canal from the Lakes to the Hudson will cost $200,000,000, it is estimated, and would not be worth the money about as quickly as powder and lead.

The Lexington Turf Exchange pool room was fined $500 each on six indictments. The other 20 indictments were squashed.

It required only two hours to indict, try, convict and sentence Gus Hyatt, a trail robber, at Clarksville, Tenn. He got 15 years.

The protracted effort to have the Younger brothers pardoned out of the Minnesota penitentiary has luckily ended in failure.

Twenty-eight hundred miners in the Pana district of Illinois were offered increased wages, but declined to return to work.

A British ship, on board of which it is believed there was a case of bubonic plague, is being held in quarantine at San Francisco.

The Third Ohio regiment is in camp at the Lagoon, near Ludlow, and the camp has been named Bradley in honor of the governor.

Miss Winnie Davis, daughter of the Confederacy, will be a guest of honor at the unveiling of the statue of Gen. Logan at Chicago.

A Western aeronaut proposes to take a flyer from Pike's Peak to Colorado Springs, a drop of 8,000 feet and a distance of 10 miles.

A London woman, who after a period of abstinence broke the pledge on jubilee day, cut the throats of her four young children and then her own.

New Yorkers are talking of starting a bank with a capital of $100,000,000 to lend money to farmers at lower rates than they now have to pay on loans.

The gold discoveries in the Yukon Valley, Alaska, is causing a great rush to that country. The last steamship from there brought over a million in gold.

The Falmouth company presented such a discreditable appearance at the Louisville encampment that it was mustered out of service by order of Gen. Collier.

Richard Smith jumped from a train while being taken to the asylum at Salem, Va. He fell down an embankment 300 feet and was literally torn to pieces by the rocks.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says that a cat lived for five years in a hole in the wall of a Wilmington, Delaware, house. It had neither food nor water during that time.

A circular just issued by the department of agriculture relative to Hawaiian commerce shows that the United States controls 90 per cent of the entire trade of the islands.

Fayette county will soon commence the erection of a new court-house in the place of the one recently burned.

The new one will be a duplicate of the old and will cost $31,000.

For the fiscal year just closed the balance of trade was more largely in our favor than ever before, the exports reaching $1,051,987,000, while the imports amounted to but $764,373,905.

The Louisville base ball club has given to Paducah club Pitcher Jones, who is a London boy. He was a great pitcher while playing with amateur clubs but proved too light for the league.

Misses Theo. Plummer and Gertrude Ferrel, of Webster City, Iowa, fledged sleep while a burglar was ransacking their room, but just as he turned his back to leave they shot him to death.

Three members of the mob that lynched the Negro, Anthony Williams, at West Point, Tenn., were accidentally shot during the lynching. One of them, the father of Williams' victim, will die.

A dispatch from Sydney, N. S. W., says that Frank Butler, the Australian Bush murderer, who was arrested at San Francisco, was executed Friday. He confessed to having committed four murders.

Mrs. Ellen Peck, said by Inspector Byrnes to be the smartest woman in the country, is wanted in New York for swindling her physician out of $10,000. She posed as the wife of a Danish admiral, with 60 millions in the treasury vaults at Washington.

James Billitter and wife, of Pikeville, this State, went visiting and left their four little children at home. They used coal oil in starting fire with which to cook dinner and two were burned to death while the other two escaped with severe injuries.

A new counterfeit $10 silver certificate has been discovered. It is of the series of 1891, check letter D, with the small carmine seal, the portrait of Hendricks and the name of Messrs. Tillman and Morgan as register and treasurer respectively.

Frank W. Phelan, of St. Louis fatally wounded Kittle M. Windsworth and then killed himself. During the great railroad strike of 1894 Phelan was prominent in the circles of the American Railway Union, and was sent to jail by Judge Taft, of Cincinnati, for contempt of court.

One of the most ancient landmarks of England is Farnham castle, the home of the bishop of Winchester. It first became a fortress in the troublesome times of Henry de Blois, who was brother to King Stephen, and bishop of Winchester. It was taken in 1216 by Louis the Dauphin, but recaptured and restored to the see in 1218.

At night the woods of Madagascar are vocal with the wailing cries of lemurs, which sound like the lamentations of human beings in distress. These creatures have heads more foxlike than monkeylike, with sharp muzzles and large, expressive eyes. The smallest species of lemur is about the size of a big rat. Another kind has white whiskers.

Burton, in his "Anatomy of Melancholy," 1621, speaks of Turkish coffee houses. In 1682 Sir Henry Blount, who wrote a book of travels in the Levant, mentions Turkish coffee with praise.

Evelyn describes drinking it at college in the rooms of a Levant friend, and Antony Wood tells that in 1650 (ten years before the restoration) a Levant Hebrew opened a coffee house at Oxford.

There Are Others.

"What is your husband's politics?" asked the new neighbor.

"Jim," said the lady addressed.

"Jim, he's an anti."

"Anti what?"

"No, not antiwhat; just a anti. Ho's agin anything that happens to be."

There are 50 odd guests at the Springs now and a large crowd due the last of the week.

It looks very much like Boss Davison is going to hold up the appointment of a postmaster at Crab Orchard until after the election. Somebody's going to get mad, no matter who gets the plum, and the gray gelding wants to hold 'em all in line as long as possible. Mr. W. A. Carson's term expired last month, and while he doesn't object to holding the office, it is by no request of his that he is held in.

WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER.—No. 24 killed a cow just beyond Paxton's summit Saturday and Engineer Farrar says that he killed two on the round-trip. Mr. H. G. Johnson, adjuster of damages to stock, popularly known as the cow coroner, tells us that an average of 300 animals is killed monthly on the Knoxville division of the L. & N. alone. He is being more and more impressed that people turn their stock on the road to get them killed for the purpose of getting more than they are worth out of the company, which pays from $30 to $40 a head for cows killed, worth really less than $20.

CHANGE OF FIRM.—J. L. & E. J. Tanner have bought of V. M. Tanner his interest in the stock of general merchandise at McKinney, and will still run the business under the firm name of Tanner Bros. In order to change the business to strictly cash they offer special bargains in every department. Persons owing the old firm will please come forward and settle soon as possible. Respt., Tanner Bros.

ROWLAND people tell us the post-office matter is all in a muddle there from the fact that Boss Davison signed each of the petitions of Miss Kate White, G. W. Goodrich and John Murphy to be postmaster and then recommended F. Cordiner for the office. Each has sent his bond to Washington and each is expecting to file stamps for the next four years. There is also a row over where the office shall be located. If Mr. Cordiner gets the office he will have it at his photograph gallery. In this end of town but protests are being signed against such action as nearly all the patrons of the office live in Needmore, the lower end, and more than half a mile from Cordiner's. Meantime Judge Shelton holds on and will till the muddle is settled.

MADE HIM PONY UP.—Those of our readers who were here at court Monday remember the noisy, long-haired medicine man who took "Dr." Anderson Carr's crowd from him and who gulled a good many of our citizens, who bad more money than brains. Well, the doctor, whose name is M. F. Chamberlin, and who claims to live at Lexington, left town without paying his license of $6. He made pretty promises to pay it, but wanted a little time which was accorded him and he afterward sneaked off. Marshal O. J. Newland heard that he was at the Lancaster fair and on Saturday morning he went thither. The doctor was there by a large majority and when the officer stated his business the former laughed at him. Such things don't bluff "Brother" though, and when he told Chamberlin that he must either pay over $12, which included besides the license, his expense of arrest, buggy hire, &c., or return with him to Stanford, he weakened and offered his check for the amount. This Mr. Newland accepted, but to make assurance doubly sure he made the doctor give him his watch to hold till it was paid. Chamberlin was badly taken down and while he may work other towns, it's dollars to doughnuts that he will not try his game on Stanford again. Anderson Carr tells us that the officers require him to pay his license in advance and he can not see nor can we, any reason why a stranger should be shown partiality.

IDOL.—The horrible news of the burning to death of Mrs. P. H. Idol at Lexington Sunday night reached here yesterday morning and created much sorrow among scores to whom she was well known. Mr. Sim A. Middleton, of this county, who happened to be in the city and was spending the night at a friend's on the opposite side of the street, was attracted by her screams and ran over to find that a lamp had exploded, so frightfully burning her, that she died a few hours later. She was the oldest child of John M. and Mrs. Mattie White of this county, and she leaves besides her husband, four children, the youngest a two-months old baby.

The Herald's account is as follows: About 9 o'clock last night Mrs. Idol started down the stairs with one of her children in her arms. Her sister, Miss Mamie White, who was visiting at her home, followed close behind, carrying a lamp. The lamp slipped from her hands, and falling, broke at Mrs. Idol's feet, scattering the oil over the stairs. Almost instantly she was completely enveloped in the flames. She ran down the steps and into a room, where she threw herself upon a bed and tried to wrap the bed clothing about her, but the covers also took fire, and before anything could be done she had been burned to almost an unrecognizable condition. The burns covered the entire body, with the exception of the upper part of the face. The flesh on parts of the body was cooked to the bone and presented a horrible sight to look upon.

The suffering of the poor woman was agonizing. None but the strongest could remain in the room where she was, and her groans and screams rent the hearts of those outside. The physicians seemed unable to do anything to relieve her terrible suffering, and could hardly restrain her in her frantic pain from tearing away the charred flesh that caused her unbearable torture. At the suggestion of physicians she was taken to the Protestant Infirmary, but she died shortly afterwards.

The grief of the sister was most pitiable. She blames herself for the accident. After doing all she could and viewing the quivering form, she covered her face with her hands to hide her sobs of grief and left the room, being unable longer to bear the sight. The child Mrs. Idol was carrying was badly blistered about the legs, but the little fellow seemed to be crying more for the suffering mother than for any pain of its own. Mr. Idol is in New York State on a business trip, and was immediately telegraphed for, although it is doubtful whether the telegram would reach him. It will be remembered Mr. Idol met with a very distressing accident last spring by the discharge of his gun while hunting, which resulted in the amputation of his arm.

It is supposed that the remains will be brought here for interment to-day, but when Mrs. J. E. Portman went out to Mr. White's yesterday to ascertain the hour, she found that all the family had gone to Lexington.
